CONSULTING EXPERIENCE

Client: Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu (contracted through the Columbia Program on International Investment -- Columbia University Law School).

Objective: Prepare a research paper that (1) examines the indirect implications for Chinese companies (i.e., their headquarters) of investing in the United States, especially in terms of any legal liabilities that might occur from their activities worldwide and (2) addresses other implications, like being more easily subject to pressure (e.g., on human rights and environmental areas) and any other implications that establishing a direct investment in the United States would have for them.
